Rubrics

A rubric is a set of specific evaluation criteria used to assess an assignment. Instructors use rubrics to carefully outline their assignment requirements and expectations for students. Students use rubrics to help guide them as they complete their assignments.

In Blackboard, rubrics can be created for Blackboard assignments, tests, discussion board, blog, journal, and wiki postings. Once created, they can be shared among different courses using the export/import feature. One rubric can be associated with more than one assignment; more than one rubric can be associated with one assignment.

Creating a Rubric

1. From the control panel (lower left side of screen), select ‘Course Tools’ then ‘Rubrics.’

2. Click the Create Rubric button at the top of the screen.

3. Give the rubric a name and description (optional).

   - Select the type of rubric (points, no points, points range, or percent) from the dropdown at the top.
   - Criteria are listed vertically along the left side, while the achievement levels are listed horizontally along the top. Use the buttons to add rows, columns, and to reorder the criteria and levels of achievement.
   - Use the dropdowns next the row and column names to edit or delete the levels of achievement and criteria.
